Tamil Nadu: 52 bonded labourers, including 17 children, rescued from two districts

Chennai As many as 52 bonded labourers have been rescued by the government from a brick kiln and a rice mill in different locations in Tamil Nadu over two days. While 42 bonded labourers were rescued from a brick kiln at Poochi Athipadu village in Tiruvallur district, which lies on the outskirts of Chennai on Tuesday, 10 bonded labourers were rescued from a rice mill at Maduranthakam town in Chengalpattu district on Wednesday. The 42 bonded labourers rescued from the brick kiln include 13 children and 29 adults belonging to 13 families. On the other hand, out of the 10 people rescued from the rice mill in Maduranthakam town, four were children. An FIR has been registered in the matter.

Based on the direction of the National Human Rights Council (NHRC), Thiruvallur revenue divisional officer (RDO) visited the worksite, conducted enquiry, and extracted 13 families from the brick kiln. Whereas, in Maduranthakam, the RDO rescued the bonded labourers during a regular inspection. During the inspection, the RDO found out that the labourers were exploited.

The labourers were rescued from the Ganapathy kiln at Poochi Athipadu village on the outskirts of Chennai.

The labourers were taken to the RDO office for a detailed inquiry. Their release certificates are yet to be issued.
